Business Recruitment – One of SKED's principal services is to market the region to prospective employers. Working in partnership with the Kentucky Cabinet for Economic Development, local economic developers and area utility companies, SKED maintains a comprehensive database and works closely with each county's economic development professional and city and county leaders to provide the business prospect with information on community resources, available infrastructure services, industrial sites, and vital demographic statistics.

Direct Loans - SKED has been designated by the U.S. Department of the Treasury as a Community Development Financial Institution (CDFI) and offers a number of low-interest loan programs. SKED currently offers loan funds to meet the needs of traditional manufacturers, the small business owner, technology-based companies, and local communities wanting to build speculative buildings. Combining the availability of its low-interest loan funds with state and local tax incentives, SKED can help a business or community compile a compelling incentive package.

Community/Economic Development – SKED offers customized economic development services to each county in its service area. The purpose of these services is to assist local communities to become better prepared to attract new business and industry. Some of the innovative regional initiatives SKED has spearheaded include the Valley Oak Technology Complex, the Somerset Rail Park, the Information Technology Center and Enterprise Center.
